TURTLE RANGE

DIRECT ERGONOMICS

OCEAN BOUND PLASTIC

Each year, Australians purchase almost 15 billion bottles.

Approximately 130,000 tonnes of plastic waste leak into Australia's waterways annually.

Not-for-profit and other organisations remove the ocean of discarded bottles.

These bottles are taken to recycling plants where the plastic is reformed into usable plastic pellets.

The Turtle range uses these 100% recycled pellets in the moulding process of the chairs and tables to create a strong and recycled range.

“THE TURTLE RANGE SHOWS DIRECT ERGONOMICS’ BELIEF THAT PROTECTING PEOPLE AND THE PLANET CAN BE STYLISH.”

Each year, 11 million tonnes of plastic waste end up in our oceans; by 2050, the weight of discarded plastics in the ocean will outweigh that of marine life. Through the recycling of 100% ocean-bound plastics, the Turtle range takes active control in reducing the impact waste has on our oceans.

ESG COMMITMENT

Our heritage influences our values. We champion diversity in our workplace, prioritise Indigenous suppliers and artists, and are committed to mentoring and empowering our community. Over the years, we have initiated programs that support Indigenous communities and at-risk youth. This includes, but is not limited to, the Indigenous Cadetship Program, the StandUp Program, the Boots N All Program, and most recently the WSW FC Indigenous Football Program.

WSW FC INDIGENOUS FOOTBALL PROGRAM

We are proud to be a cornerstone partner for the Western Sydney Wanderers FC Indigenous Football Program. Designed to promote mental and physical health for at-risk First Nations youth, participants receive expert coaching to enhance their football skills, fitness, confidence, and teamwork in a structured and supportive environment.

Addressing Indigenous underrepresentation in football, it engages First Nations youth in Western Sydney, where 1 in 5 First Nations Australians live, and 60% are under 24. Alongside sports training, the program incorporates Indigenous cultural celebrations, with activities like dancing and singing led by Indigenous leaders each term.

Targeting high school students, it offers skill development, opportunities for friendship, and potential entry into the WSW Girls or Boys Academy. By the program's end, at least 40 Indigenous participants will have improved their football skills and received health and fitness mentorship, with a pathway to the Girls and Boys academies, fostering a safe, inclusive environment that celebrates culture and community and gives back.
